

Home grown or imported? Fox carcass found in Tassie

01 November 2016

Over the weekend, a member of the public found the carcass of a male fox on the side of the Frankford Highway.

Appearing to only have three legs, the carcass is the first to be found in Tasmania since 2006.

Ivan Dean, Independent MLC for Windermere explains to Brian Carlton why he isn't buying it.

"It does look like that carcass has been around for a while," Mr. Dean says.
